Statement on ethics and best practices for publication in Montalbán, history magazine

MONTALBÁN, history magazine, assumes a firm commitment with the scientific community in order to be a faithful guarantor of the correct practices of a publication under ethical criteria and quality of the published documents. The journal has as a basis and reference for such practices the Code of Conduct and Good Practices defined by the Committee on Publication Ethics (COPE) for editors of scientific journals. Likewise, it is responsible for offering answers adjusted to the needs of readers and authors.